

Smithfield Romania Animal Care Policy

As responsible hog and pork producers, we recognize and accept our moral and ethical obligation to provide for the well-being of our animals. Since compliance with animal welfare is a constant concern of our Company, we have developed a comprehensive animal care program to make sure our animals are safe, comfortable and healthy.

As the world's largest pork producer, Smithfield Romania raises and slaughters approximately 1 million market hogs/year.

Smithfield Romania Animal Care Policy, which applies to all Company farms, animal growers (Contract Growers) and slaughterhouse articulates our commitment to sound animal care and identifies the following specific responsible areas of practice.

Our animal Care Policy underscores the Company's commitment to provide:

- Shelter that is designed, maintained and operated to meet animals needs, both in the farms and during animals transport from farms to the slaughterhouse;
- Access to adequate water and high quality feed to meet nutritional requirements;
- Human treatment of animals that enhances their well-being and complies with all applicable laws and regulations;
- Identification and appropriate treatment of animals in need of health care;
- Use of human methods to euthanize sick or injured animals which are not responding to care and treatment;
- Antibiotics used and antibiotic administration practices, approved by licensed professional veterinarians.
